It Takes a Village

Adriana her horse Milo plus her boyfriend Jason, Kristin & Brach, plus Cassandra & Max went to Morvan Park in Leesburg, Va. to attend a USDF dressage show. It was Kristin's first time showing in over 23 years! And, what a blast. In between riding dressage we splashed around in the water jumps & hacked through the estate's tall grass. Plus, Kristin & Brach did very well showing! We scored a 70% in our first class!

Meanwhile, being a person who likes her wine, not whine, I just found out that my horse's name Bracchus means: Wikipedia: Bracchus (aka Dionysus) was the god of the grape harvest, winemaking & wine, of ritual madness & ecstasy in Greek mythology. Now I understand why I own this horse!

Jason from www.divinemayhem.com accompanied Adriana to the show & took 715 photos! You can see him in Brach's stall getting some photos of Adriana's braiding job! Many people thought we were famous because a camera followed us every where we went at Morvan park! Me & Lady Gaga - paparazzi ... (some of these photos are from our iphones) Here is a link to more Morvan Park photos <https://www.facebook.com/media/set/?set=a.409865445700754.92136.168359289851372&type=3>
