Here are two pictures of our world traveling dressage rider schooling her horse at Coventry. Nice rising trot with the horse tracking up and "on the bit," and then cantering in jumping position to open and free the gaits of the horse and to bring the back up to develop the top line. At Coventry we learn to canter both in jumping position and sitting in order to be a "complete rider." Got to be able to do it all :)

"It takes a lot of courage to release the familiar and seemingly secure, to embrace the new. But there is no real security in what is no longer meaningful. There is more security in the adventurous and exciting, for in movement there is life, and in change there is power." -Alan Cohen
